Dr. Angeliki Athanasopoulou

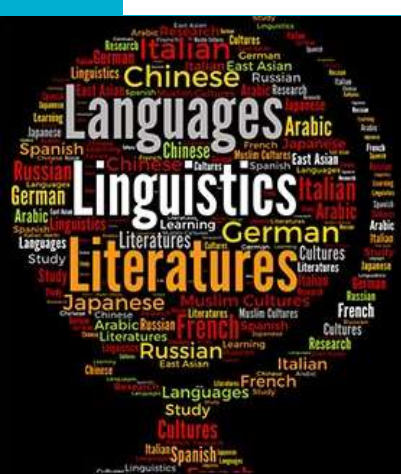

Research Interests

My research focuses on phonology and phonetics and in particular, on prosodic phenomena across languages. I am interested in the manifestation of various prosodic structures (stress, tone, focus, intonation) in adults and children. My goals are twofold; a) to inform the linguistic typology of prosody and b) to study the developmental process of more complex prosodic structures (e.g., compound stress, clitic stress, etc.) with a focus on the production properties of children.
